

PROGRAMME
Monday, 27th January
8:30 - 10:00	Registration
10:00 - 10:20	Opening conference
10:20 - 11:00	Keynote lecture	Hejzman M.: Volcanic eruptions, crop failures, famines and the caring capacity of the planet for the human population
11:00 - 12:30	Session 1	Borderie Q.: Where are the crops? Geoarchaeological and archeobotanical studies of early medieval floors from northern France.
		Koštial J. CH.: Is your garden big enough? Some speculative calculations over the One Hectare Hypothesis.
		Pokorná A.: Cereal crops in an Early Medieval stronghold Královice, Central Bohemia
		Jungová M.: Rumex alpinus as the ancient food plant introduced into the Czech Republic by colonists from the Alps
		Žurek K.: The Network of defence settlements from the Bronze Age between the Biebrza and Narew during environmental crisis
		Novák J.: Long-term history of woodland under human impact: archaeo-anthracological synthesis for lowlands in the Czech Republic
12:30 - 14:00	Lunch break
14:00 - 15:30	Session 2	Budilová K., Atanasoska N.: Farmers and Pastoralists – case hypothesis od Pelagonia and Mariovo (Republic of North Macedonia)
		Karlík P.: How is the age of calcareous grasslands affecting the occurrence of plant species and vegetation composition
		Pravcová I.: Archaeological research of pluzina field systems as a phenomenon of historical landscape of Czech Republic
		Asara M.O.: Seventy years of settlement activities at former German-Togoland resulted in development of African dark earth soil characterized by the accumulation of C, N, P, K, Ca, S, Mn, Fe, Zn, Cu, Sr, and Rb
		Mlejnek O.: Interdisciplinaria Archaeologica, Natural Sciences in Archaeology Journal is Crossing the Threshold of a First Decade
15:30 - 15:45	Coffee break
15:45 - 16:15	Plenary discussion	Prach J.: Paleoecologically valuable sediments endangered by mud removal from ponds and wetlands (in Czech)
16:15 – 17:00	Poster Session	Látková M.: Charred food supply from Bratislava Castle
		Lisá: Archaeology of empty spaces – geoarchaeological research of Mt.Beuvray / Bibracte - Celtic oppidum in light of micromorphology
		Krčová D.: Archaeobotanical remains from Zohor, dist. Malacky, Slovakia
17:00 - 18:00	Keynote lecture	Šmejda L.: Remote sensing approach to a comparative study of agroecosystems

18:00	Reception
Tuesday, 28th January
9:00 - 10:00	Session 3	Rakava V.: Distribution of pottery fragments of the last two centuries in arable fields: the case from the Žluticko region Fanta V.: Thirty Years' War and human carrying capacity – from historical geography to population ecology Ptáková M.: From Mesolithic hunters to Iron Age herders. A unique record of woodland exploitation from eastern Central Europe (Czech Republic) Beneš J.: Unclear boundary: Pastoralists and settled agriculturalists in Sub-Saharan Africa – subsistence, domestication, dynamics
10:00 - 10:30	Keynote lecture	Shai I.: Economic life of an Iron Age Judahite Town: A View from Tel Burna
10:30 - 11:00	Coffee Break
11:00 - 12:00	Session 4	Janovský M.: Chemistry of Soils and Sediments from an Ancient Site in the southern Levant: Tel Burna as a Case Study in the multi-elemental study of post-depositional and depositional processes Kłusakiewicz E.: The Holocene changes of sedimentation types in the upper Kamienna river flood plain (Kielce Upland, Poland) Lisá L.: Floor maintenance of medieval buildings as a possible cultural behavioural status? Preliminary interpretations of floor formation processes from Medieval Brno, Czech Republic Žurek K.: We are in swapland. First results of geoarcheological research on subneolithic settlement in Liosk
12:00 - 13:30	Lunch
13:30 - 15:30	Excursion: University tropical greenhouses with tropical crops, university brewery and beer production, experimental breeding of domestic animals
15:30 - 16:00	Coffee Break
16:00 - 16:45	Keynote lecture	Ackermann O.: Agricultural Systems and Terrace Pattern Distribution Along Climatic Gradient: From Sub-humid Mediterranean to Arid Conditions
18:00	Social evening
Wednesday, 29th January
8:30 - 17:00	Post-conference tour	